

USE THESE TOOLS TO SUPPORT LOCAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

There are endless examples of how local communities and municipalities are supporting the agri-food sector in Ontario. Every new initiative requires information and resources to get underway. And often, another group in another community may have already done the groundwork...but the information isn't easily available or shared.

OFA has created a new interactive online directory of existing resources. The Agri-Food Initiatives Ontario Directory is an idea bank of resources that have already been created to support the agri-food sector.

- ✓ More than 700 online community resources available to the public
- ✓ Supports economic development and planning in agricultural/rural communities and urban agriculture
- ✓ Encourages sharing of ideas and successes about initiatives across Ontario

Before you plan your next local event or activity, see if somebody has already done some of the legwork that could help get your project going.
